Town Meeting Set For Next Month

The Selectmen have definitely scheduled a special Town Meeting for Oct. 3 to act on a proposal for acquisition of an elementary school site off Holt and Bancroft Roads, approve purchase of some 18 acres of land for conservation and, hopefully, clear up the question of a Town Hall site.

A third article has been authorized which would provide for the enlarging of Haggetts Pond, but the board approved this one with the understanding that it may or may not support it on the floor of Town Meeting.

Voters will be asked also to give the town manager authority to apply for a planning advance for construction of a second West Andover school, and they will likely be prevailed upon to approve a switch in sites for the new central fire station.

As a solution to the Southeast Andover school site problem, the board is suggesting acquisition of just under 30 acres of land in the area of Bancroft reservoir. Included would be three acres owned by Fred Cheever, about seven and one half acres owned by Jean J. Chalifour, 13 acres owned by Emily Bullock and roughly a quarter of an acre belonging to P. Hayden Clark. About four acres of town land adjacent to the reservoir would be included.

In addition, a right of way would have to be acquired from the Bullock property through to Holt Road which would provide one of two access to the school. A second would come in from Bancroft Road.

The school building itself would be constructed on part of the Bullock acreage. The sewage problem that has caused the board to abandon consideration of Cottage

Architectural Expert To Advise Committee

An architectural consultant is to be named to work with the Andover Historic District Study Committee when it meets for the second time on Sept. 15.

Dr. Charles A. Currier, chairman, has said that there are two experts on antique architecture in town and that one will be asked to advise his committee.

Officers were elected and subcommittees named at the organizational meeting held last month. Currier was chosen chairman by members of the newly appointed study group and Miss Miriam Putnam, town librarian, was elected secretary.

Appointed to study procedures were Atty. Richard Sullivan, Atty. Thomas Tavenner, Harold King, chairman of the town planning board and S. Marcus Sweet, whose suggestion to the town manager sparked organization of the committee to determine whether or not Andover should establish a district or districts for the protection of antique buildings.

Frederick Cheever, Miss Putnam and Robert Goodwin were asked to make a listing of all buildings that are of potential interest to a historic district com-

Born in Utica, N. Y. on Sept. 29, 1910, Mr. Kellmurray was educated at Utica Free Academy and later at Yale University where he received a master of arts degree in 1941. He later taught and served as a counselor for freshmen at Yale.

Before coming to Andover, Mr. Kellmurray served three years with the Department of Interior in Washington, D. C. during which period he became suddenly blind. He learned braille and worked with a seeing eye dog until his sight was unexpectedly restored in 1941. All the major wire services and the Saturday Evening Post carried accounts of this unusual event.

Mr. Kellmurray re-entered Yale as a graduate student in 1939 and was shortly thereafter appointed to the University staff. He was also associated with Utica Free Academy and Massachusetts Institute of Technology before joining the Andover school system in 1943.

During the war Mr. Kellmurray spent one year organizing and directing a division of aptitude for Bethlehem Steel Co. shipyard. He worked too on a special personnel research assignment at Harvard University and was for some time chairman of the Andover Veterans' Education Committee.

The educator was a member of the Educational Records Bureau, a past president of the Merrimack Valley Guidance Assn., a member of the Modern Language Assn. and the National and State Teachers Assns. He attended St. Augustine's Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mary E. Kellmurray, a sister, Mrs. John Reilly of North Abington; and a niece and a nephew.

The funeral will be held today from Lundgren Funeral Home with a high Mass of requiem at 9 a.m. at St. Augustine's Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Clinton, N. Y.

Pollution Bill Urged

Telegrams went out from Town Hall Wednesday to the State House urging action on pollution abatement legislation before the General Court winds up its session this weekend.

Certain Federal aid for river clean-up projects will be lost to communities like Andover if State matching funds are not appropriated. The Selectmen, at the urging of the town manager, notified the Senate President, House Speaker and area representatives of their concern that adjournment would come before action on proposals that would correct this situation.

Big Stumps Big Nuisance At Landfill

Manager Richard Bowen asked the Selectmen last week to help him come up with a solution for stump dumping at the town's landfill project.

He told the board he had ordered an end to wholesale dumping of stumps from construction projects because the municipal dump was not intended for the disposal of such heavy and unmanageable material as some developers have left there.

Bowen said that at the same time he realizes the town must help come up with a solution to the problem. He added that he thought it was a time saver for contractors to move such debris to the dump rather than burn and bury at the site, but that some sort of compromise is necessary because the town does not want to burn at the landfill.

Though dump burning was banned by Bowen early in his career here, fires have continued to plague the dump staff and the fire department. The manager said this week, however, that there has not been a fire at the dump for one month.

Commenting further on the dump this week, the manager said that improvements are being made in conditions there at a steady pace since the new heavy bulldozer has been on the job.

ers were not satisfied with the rnard-Lally plan.

e particularly mentioned the rin property and said that its present owners (John Davidson and Phidias Dantos) might become discouraged by the zoning complications arising from their plans for expanding use of the property to include both added commercial and apartment units. He suggested that they might be of a mind to sell.

Selectman Philip K. Allen took exception to what he understood as a suggestion that Danton Realty might not be in a position to continue with its plans. He said that he felt criticism of two young men who have done so much for the town was unwarranted. Mr. White replied that he did not intend to be critical or sarcastic.

Still up in the air is the suggestion for switching fire station sites. The last Town Meeting voting to acquire land on Stevens Street for a new central station, but Selectman White has opposed this move since his election to the board.

A final decision on this issue was postponed to give the town manager and Chairman William Stewart time to talk to Lincoln Giles about what it would cost to acquire the old Tyer Rubber warehouse on Main Street. When this location was discussed as a possible site for a combined town hall, fire station and police station, a minimum of figure of $160,000 was mentioned.

Mr. White would like now to consider constructing a single police-fire station on this location.

mission and list them by period.

The study committee is to report to the Selectmen, hopefully by Feb. 1, either recommending for or against creation of historic districts. If a district or districts are recommended, a proposal is to be readied for the 1967 Town Meeting.

It is apparently safe to anticipate such a proposal. Some members of the study committee have already indicated that they see the need of some sort of official protection for landmark properties.

FRONT WHEEL DRIVE
just too good to last as a SAAB specialty

Today, you can buy FRONT WHEEL DRIVE in a large Detroit sport-sedan, at more than twice the price of a Swedish SAAB. Of course, SAAB has had Front Wheel Drive pulling for it for over sixteen years.

It was inevitable that American car manufacturers would latch on to it sooner or later. FRONT WHEEL DRIVE puts the engine weight over the driving wheels, makes for roadability and balance — pulls you through when the road throws you a curve, when the going gets rough . . . or slick. And you get tow-truck traction in snow.

Library Aides Get A Workou

spent the summer working at Memorial Hall Library as pages, typists, book-menders, desk assistants, and movers-of-books-to-their-new-locations.

Packed books in boxes and devised a slide of plywood to get them from the top floor to the mezzanine one flight down.

Spent the hottest week of the summer on the lower level arranging thousands of bound periodicals and boxes of loose periodicals in alphabetical order. (The periodical section has no windows due to the marvels of mechanical airconditioning. It had no airconditioning either, at the time.)

Switched all the fiction on the main floor Level A for Z and Z for A in accordance with the OVERALL GRAND PLAN which is being readied for a fall opening . . .

ARE returning to their schools and colleges early next week. Those whose cheerful presence, and performance of hard work under trying circumstances is much appreciated by all the staff.

They are:

Lynn Anderson, John Diodati, Mary Alice McQuade, Gail Petteruto, Karen Russell, Robert Sattin, Cynthia Schadlick, William Stickland and Joan Sweeney (for Ballardvale).

60 Hear Miss Lane

The Turkish story hour on Aug. 23 drew a crowd of sixty children and a few adults to hear Miss Margaret Lane tell Hodja stories in the children's room of Memorial Hall Library. Miss Lane, former children's librarian, is currently librarian at the American School for Girls in Uskadar, Turkey.

She introduced her audience to modern Turkey first, explaining that the boys and girls there are apt to play the same games that children do here. For example, while they call them by different names, they play hop scotch and tag. They like the same things there as we do - swimming, soft drinks. She described the clothes and some customs and for her story program told about "The Little Gray Mouse and the Handsome Cock", "Sea of Pearls", and four Hodja tales, "Nasreddin Hodja and the Donkeys", "Nesreddin Hodja and the Four Arrows", "Nasreddin Hodja Rescues the Moon", and "Nasreddin Hodja Goes to Dinner".

Books containing all these stories are part of the juvenile collection at Memorial Hall Library. Ask for them at the desk in the children's room if you would like to read them.

"Library Blue"

Several staff members and friends spent Saturday painting part of the old library stacks in the new Library Blue, a green-blue, or if you prefer, a blue-green selected as the chief accent color by the architects of the new library wing. Administering detergents, turpentine and Library Blue were Everett Ward, former library custodian, Mr. and Mrs. Wolf Berthold (she works on registration and at the desk) Miss Miriam Putnam, librarian, Mrs. K. C. Vint, assistant librarian, Linwood Hilton.

Midway through the work Miss Putnam served coffee informally to the informally attired workers.

Three Activities Dominate Camp Fire Girls' Summer

Camp Fire Girls in the Merrimack Valley district have finished off a busy season of summer activities which included day and resident camp programs.

Junior high opened the season with an overnight at Camp Forty Acres in Wilmington, and there followed four one-week sessions of day camp at Andover's Camp Harold Parker. Four two-week periods of resident camp were held at Camp Kiwanee in Hanson.

Kathryn Bubar, Bets-Ann Holmes, Sydney-Anne Hood, Mary Ellen King, Brenda Sue Peterson, Patti Spiegel, Lisa Spiegel, Donna Marie Teter, Penny Mitchell and Nancy Barry, Janet Cromie and Debbie Newhouse were counselor aids.

At Camp Kiwanee, Marcia Anderson was a counselor intraining for all sessions and Georgia Anderson, Nancy Anderson, Janet Cromie, Elaine Kopatch, Debbie Howard, Patricia Kelly, Ohia Newhouse, Susan Legros, Karen Strobel and Wendy Wood were among the Andover campers.

In A Word . . .

HAY FEVER

Until very recently, hay fever sufferers looked forward with dread to soaring pollen counts. Probably they pictured hell as a vast expanse carpeted with ragweed and goldenrod.

Many specialists prescribe long-acting injections of one of the newer steroid drugs—the same preparations that bring relief to thousands of sufferers from rheumatism and other inflammatory diseases.

Antihistamines are also being used with much success. The third approach is called "desensitization," meaning that the patient is dosed in advance of the hay fever season with preparations actually containing the substance or substances to which he is allergic. This builds resistance against the time when he is fully exposed to the offending pollen or other substance.

Whichever method your doctor prefers, your pharmacist delivers the medication he prescribes in a form suited to your own particular needs. Not every hay fever sufferer can expect complete relief, but when better drugs come along you'll find them at your pharmacy.

A First

Last week the Selectmen confirmed the appointment of a new tax collector. The announcement of a successor to James Christie, who retires this fall after 28 years at Town Hall, seemed routine enough. But the event was, in a sense, historic.

This is the first time a key administrative post has been filled under the terms of the municipal personnel system put into effect by the manager a year ago; the first time such a job has gone to a man selected impartially, on the basis of qualifications alone. It was the first real test of the merit system, and the results were undoubtedly a surprise to those town employees who regarded with skepticism the adoption of such a pattern for the selection and advancement of personnel. This instance is proof that it can work.

The Selectmen are to be commended for putting tradition aside and permitting the merit system to function.

Prior to the adoption of the manager charter, the tax collector and other major administrators were elected at the polls.

The responsibility for such appointments has belonged to the manager since the change in government, but not until last year was there an established procedure for the processing of applicants. It was customary for candidates and their friends to lobby and it was customary for the Selectmen to inject themselves into the selection process.

It was natural that in this latest instance they should find themselves pressured to intercede again. And it was natural for them, as creatures of politics to be tempted. It is to their credit that they did not resist publicly the shift to a personnel system that guarantees fair consideration for all applicants of municipal positions.

No system of hiring and firing is certain to produce the right man for the right job every single time. But a system that treats applicants equally and measures them against established standards is the only practical one – particularly for a public administration.

An Obligation

If Raytheon Company comes to the point of needing water from the municipal supply in order to make up its deficit, the town has an obligation to come to her rescue. This is the position of the manager and that taken by the selectmen last week.

It is a point of view that must be shared by the townspeople, even if meeting the need should make necessary renewed water disciplines for residents.

Raytheon has alerted the town to the possibility that in the very near future she may not be able to draw enough from the Shawsheen to meet the requirements of her production operations. This is so in spite of the fact that the missile manufacturer uses, filters and returns to the river some 700,000 gallons of water a day. It is so despite the fact that the company is economizing on the use of water, even in certain production departments. It is so because the Shawsheen is yielding less bountifully than at any time in recollected history.

If Andover is asked, she must respond. To do otherwise would be to shout abroad, as Selectman White has said, that the climate for industry in Andover is unfavorable.

But there is more to it than that. Andover has the responsibility to take care of her own in an emergency, and "her own" includes the businesses and industries that function here, provide employment, infuse money into the local economy and pay taxes upon the properties they hold. No other attitude is conscionable.

There has been an inclination to protect the townspeople from the news that they may have to sacrifice something in order to keep Raytheon running. We see no need for this protection. Surely there cannot be more than a handful of people in Andover who would "misunderstand" the need – or value their landscaping projects on a par with an operation that affects the lives of so many people.

Only an enraged citizenry, "fed up with poverty, sickened by destruction of natural beauty, scandalized by corruption, and enraged by the injustice of racial imbalance" can eliminate these blights from the social scene. – – Massachusetts Lt. Governor Elliot L. Richardson, at the Northeast Fish and Wildlife Conference.

Civic mindedness may be defined as continuing to vote for new schoolhouses after your kids are grown up.

Learning Centers

Libraries Are Changing

New York - While nearly every school has a library of sorts, more schools are discovering that a centralized library with a qualified, full-time librarian can become a major factor in a child's education.

In fact, an interview with 100 college seniors planning elementary teaching careers showed that most rated a centralized school library above all other services.

Concrete proof of the wisdom of this assessment has come in the last few years. It's all thanks to a grant of $1,130,000 from the Knapp Foundation Inc. to the American Library Assn. - with the successful launching of a five-year program to convert certain selected school libraries into vital learning materials centers.

Before the conclusion of the Knapp School Libraries Project, a total of five elementary schools and three secondary schools will have served as demonstration centers. Their original library programs will have been brought up to the standards set by the American Library Assn., and they will have been opened for observation by educators, school board members, and civic leaders from all over the country.

The inclusion of teachers in the teams of visitors - according to Miss Peggy Sullivan, director of the Knapp Project - has already revealed to them how their cooperative planning can result in overall benefit for the student. With more assistance, the librarian is free to plan materials for specific units of work as required by the teacher, and, in time, to assist the teacher further by recommending materials for new approaches or topics in various areas.

With its wide array of new methods and materials - including filmstrips, recordings, displays, maps, pictures, special collections, group discussions, individual guidance and study, and even educational games - the well-organized, centralized library in the school helps encourage a child's personal reading tastes and abilities. It also points the way for educational trends of the future.

For, according to leading educators, the school of the future will place much more emphasis on the development of individual student responsibility for learning and growth in intellectual inquiry. In fact, most high school students will spend about 12 hours per week in school in independent study.

Tomorrow's schools will acco viewing and listening a status co parable with that of reading tod And this is where the importa of the Knapp Project comes fully trained in the use of the lat materials, future library st will become directly involved servicing the independent stud students. Librarians will also p key roles in helping teach decide how and when to use bo along with a wide variety of aud visual and electronic devices.

Teachers will work in tea each teaching in areas of his terests and abilities. Thus stude will benefit from contact several personalities in a sub area rather than one, librarians in Knapp Proje schools are members of teach teams so that their services be more closely interrelated the teaching-learning process.

Today's libraries and librari are to a large extent on the frin of education. Tomorrow - tha to creative innovations like Knapp Project - they will be the mainstream. The result undoubtedly be a finer and m stimulating educational oppor nity for all.

Down The Years

75 Years Ago – September, 1891

A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services over the remains of Fernando P. Shattuck at his late residence Saturday afternoon Rev. Frederic Palmer officiated. Burial was at Spring Grove Cemetery.

We overheard our ice man, B. F. Holt saying the other day that he didn't know anything about fishing. If he had said the same about raising apples, we should have disputed him; for the sample before us of the handsomest basket of Red Astrachans we have ever seen, was abundant evidence of his skill in this line.

J. H. Richardson's horse, Twang, is doing great work on the track this season. Tuesday, at Franklin Park, he lowered his record of 2.25 1/4 and won after a hard race and losing the first heat.

An amusement (?) that some of the very fresh youth around Andover are indulging in during their summer rides about the country is that of taking down signs from guideposts and adorning public buildings (and private too) with them.

50 Years Ago – September, 1916

Following the advice of the local school physician and the board of health, the School Committee has decided to defer the opening of the public schools until Sept. 25. This step has been decided upon after a careful analysis of the infantile paralysis situation throughout the country, there being an epidemic in the eastern states at the present time and hundreds of children have either died or will be crippled for life.

IF the history of the United States has a parallel to the exhibition made to the public during the past month by Woodrow Wilson, our memory cannot recall it. It has been bad enough on several previous occasions when the duties and responsibilities of all sorts of Federal officials have been taken over by the President. It was going clear to the limit when Mr. Wilson took upon himself the task of arbitrating the present issue between the railroads and their employees. When, however, he sets himself as that self-appointed arbiter charged with but one duty and that to please a big body of 400,000 workers at the expense of the entire great big mass of people just because the 400,000 are all voters, isn't it about time for the other 95% to wake up?

25 Years Ago – September, 1941

Dr. Phillips H. Greene, superintendent of the Yale-in-China Hospital in Changsha, Huana, China has been visiting here. A partial resident of Andover for 30 years, Dr. Greene has been running a military hospital for four wartime years. This week he is preserving peaches in the kitchen of Foster home on lower Cen Street.

Arts Center Is Planned For Cape Cod

Plans were announced last week for a Cape Cod Center of Performing Arts to be established by the Raymond Moore Foundation on the grounds of the famous Cape Playhouse and Cinema in Dennis.

The new center will be administered as a non-profit enterprise by a foundation separate from but sponsored by the Moore Foundation. It is to be supported primarily through the sale of subscription tickets and private tax-free giving, though approaches will be made to foundations, business and government.

An acoustically engineered music shell will open in 1967 and a 10-week series of solo and chamber music concerts is already planned for next summer.

By 1970 the new center may well host periodic arts festivals drawing international companies and artists, special films and exhibits of the graphic arts. Far-flung economic benefits can be anticipated as by-products of this cultural project midway between Provincetown and the Cape Cod Canal. Besides the regular resident and tourist element that is the backbone of the cape economy theatre and art enthusiasts should be attracted to the new center from many parts of the world, throughout the long summer season.

BCA Expands Job Service

The Ballardvale Community Assn. is expanding its self-help program for teenagers, enlarging the territory to which it will supply teen workers for odd jobs, part time employment etc.

Theodore Acosta, BCA president, said last week that the organization has eight boys and four girls registered with its "employment" service. "Jobs are not pouring in as we had hoped, but people who have hired our teenagers are pleased," Acosta said.

Initially the association announced that it would function as a clearing house to bring Ballardvale teenagers and Ballardvale employers together. But the association has had and handled requests already from other parts of town. Now it is officially interested in calls from anyone who has work for teenagers, whether it be baby sitting, lawn mowing or whatever.

Residents who want to put a Bo-Jac (boy) or a Bo-Jil (girl) to work should contact Mrs. Wendell Mattheson or Mrs. George Nason. Teenagers who want to register for the labor pool, particularly older teenagers, should call Acosta.

Fire Damages Finnagan Home

There was heavy fire damage Friday to the attic floor of the home of Richard Finnagan, 3 Cuba St.

The fire department reports that there was also considerable water and smoke damage to other floors. The cause of the residence blaze has yet to be determined by state fire officials.

At about 9:30 a.m. Aug. 26 both Mrs. Finnagan and a daughter thought they smelled smoke. Upon investigation they found it was coming from the attic area, part of which served as a bedroom for two children.

Three children were in the house with Mrs. Finnagan at the time the blaze was discovered, one of them just nine days old. None was injured.

It was reported this week by Mrs. Benjamin Slade, SMF chairman for the Andover Red Cross, that the fire department, the Red Cross and several local churches have combined efforts to help the Finnagan family recover from fire losses.

From New Brunswick, Canada comes word that an Andover minister and his family were caught up in the excitement surrounding the visit of President Lyndon B. Johnson to Campobello Island in mid-August.

Rev. R. E. Bossdorf of Ballard Vale United Church and Mrs. Bossdorf were among the limited number of guests invited to worship at St. Anne's Anglican Church with the Presidential Party. Among those in the congregation were the President, his wife and daughter Lynda Bird, Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada and his wife and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

The small church was that attended by President Franklin D. Roosevelt when he summered on the island as a child and later when he returned as President. It was on Campobello that Franklin Jr. was born and that Franklin Sr. contracted polio in 1921.

A bridge now links Campobello Island with Lubec, Maine. It is called Roosevelt Memorial Bridge.

The Bossdorfs have a summer place on Campobello.

Writer Given Saxton Grant

Andrew Coburn, former Andover correspondent for the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune, has been granted a fellowship by the Eugene F. Saxton Memorial Trust to aid in the completion of a novel.

A new resident in Andover, Coburn is now feature writer and Saturday suburban editor for the Lawrence paper.

The Saxton Memorial Trust was established in 1943 by Harper & Brothers (now Harper & Row, Publishers) in memory of its chief literary editor who for many years encouraged writers of distinction, often when they were still unrecognized.

IT MAY BE EARLIER THAN YOU THINK!

IF YOUR PRESENT JOB seems to be leading you up a blind alley you may have decided it's too late to do anything about it. This isn't necessarily so. Many of our most successful associates once felt exactly as you feel now . . . frustrated, doubtful, full of unrealized potential.

If you can meet our qualifications we will train you to become a registered representative for one of the fastest-growing companies (assets in excess of $2,000,000,000) in the fast-growing mutual fund industry.

If you are intelligent, energetic and respected in your community, we want to talk to you. Selling experience is helpful but not necessary. In fact, many of our most successful associates had never sold anything until we trained them. If you come with us you will be given intensive training which could start you down the road to a new and richer way of life you'll learn the secret of helping yourself by helping others.

We say again, "It may be earlier than you think." Write or phone for a personal interview. Everything you say or write will be held in strict confidence.

New Findeisen Addition

For over 70 years, Findeisen's Dairy in Methuen has been delivering fresh milk and dairy products to residents of the Merrimack Valley, Salem, N.H., and Haverhill. Their many trucks with the well-known Findeisen Farms sign is a familiar sight in this area, and during the summer months their ice cream stands are equally popular.

Now, in order to serve you better, Findeisen's Dairy has recently opened a new, convenient store featuring all their dairy products, plus a new ice cream stand, at their main plant, 155 Lowell Street in Methuen. There you will find a complete line of farm-fresh products, including ice cream; chocolate and white milk; butterfat-free milk; light, heavy, and all-purpose cream; margarine; butter; eggs and cottage cheese.

Homemakers will appreciate the fact that Findeisen's Dairy guarantees that all its fine products are laboratory tested and farm-fresh. Early each moring tank trucks cart milk from the Findeisen Creamery in Lyndonville, Vermont to the home plant in Methuen for processing. Then the milk is ready for delivery to your home by friendly Findeisen milkmen. In this way, Findeisen's insures that only the finest quality milk will be at your doorstep, in their new store for convenient pick-up, or in the dairy case at your local supermarket.

Findeisen's Farms, Inc. was established in 1894 by Hugo P. Findeisen and has been owned and operated by the Findeisen family continuously since then. At the present time, Paul Findeisen has full responsibility for the business and over the years has maintained the fine tradition for quality products that has become synonomous with the name Findeisen.

Biblical Studies

Weekday School Registering

The Andover Weekday School of Biblical Studies will begin its 23rd year Sept. 13.

Parents of students attending Andover Junior High School may register their children by returning cards sent to them in the mail this week.

The Weekday School is a released time program sponsored by Andover churches with the cooperation of the junior high school administration. Classes and activities are arranged at the public school so that students released for the Bible education course do not miss required work or any enrichment activity that is of particular interest to them.

Religious instruction is not a part of the Weekday program. Instead, in the context of academic life, students are given an opportunity to study a major document of Western Civilization. The Bible is the only text. Assignments, tests and grades are based solely on its content, Walter E. Aufrecht, director, reports in announcing the 1966 school. Theological interpretation of the book is left to the individual student's church, he adds.

Further information can be had from Mr. Aufrecht, 25 Central St.

Woman Joins Church Staff

Miss Harriet Newman, 121 Elm St., has accepted a call from Bethlehem Congregational-Christian Church (United Church of Christ), Suffolk, Va. to be director of Christian Education.

Miss Newman currently holds a similar part-time position with First Congregational Church, Boxford. She has submitted her resignation to become effective Sept. 30 and will assume her duties in Virginia the first of October.

A graduate of Fisher Junior College, Miss Newman attended Elon College, Boston University School of Education, and Lowell State Teachers College, the Hartford Seminary Foundation and Andover Newton Theological School.

She has worked as a secretary in local offices and for several years served churches in New Hampshire and Massachusetts as director of Christian education. During the past year she has been a teacher for the Greater Lawrence Council of Churches Weekday Religious Education program.

Food Course At Institute

A new course in food service has been established at the Essex Agricultural & Technical Institute. The board of trustees announces that the one-year course for young men will begin this September.

Training will include classroom instruction in principles of marketing, nutrition, general chemistry, communication skills, quality control and principles of business management, menu planning, purchasing and other areas related to the food service business. They will also receive on-the-job training in various food establishments that will expose them to commerical standards and practices employed in the industry.

Completion of this one-year program will qualify graduates for positions as cooks and chefs, supervisors, technicians, manager and specialty workers. Recent surveys have indicated that in no field of employment is there a greater demand for trained personnel than in food service - New England's fourth largest industry.

Applications are now being accepted. Interested high school graduates should call Miss Hilda Fitzgerald at the Institute for an interview. Tuition for the course is free of charge to Essex County residents.

Candidate Campaigns In Andover

John J. Buckley of Belmont, Republican candidate for the office of State Auditor, was in Andover Tuesday seeking support for his program streamlining the auditor's operation.

Pointing out that the state supports some 200 separate payroll operations, Buckley told this newspaper that he favors consolidating and computerizing the function, both to speed the process and make it more economical.

He would make it a policy to spot check purchase orders and bills against items delivered to see that the State receives in goods precisely what it pays for. No such check is made at present, he said.

Taking the position that the auditor should function as something more than an accountant, Buckley said he believes this state official should look for ways to cut the cost of state government. As an example, he suggested dovetailing of personnel for the Motor Vehicle and Motorboat divisions both of which hire seasonal help, maintain separate public relations departments etc.

Until June, Buckley was special assistant to Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.), managing the Senator's Boston office. He was campaign consultant and advisor to Lt. Gov. Elliot Richardson in 1964.

The candidate is a graduate of Boston College and founder of both the Campus Blouse Co. and J. J. Buckley Furniture Co., Falmouth.

TOPSFIELD FAIR OPENS SUNDAY

The 142nd annual Topsfield Fair opens Sunday and will continue through Sept. 10, Labor Day Week.

GOP Dinner Next Week

The entire Republican state ticket will be guests at the Essex Club's fund-raising dinner in Saugus Sept. 9.

Club President William A. McCarthy said this week acceptances have been received from Gov. John A. Volpe, U.S. Senate candidate Edward W. Brooke, Elliot L. Richardson, Francis W. Sargent, Joseph E. Fernandes, Raymond W. Trudel and John J. Buckley.

Head table guests will also include Congressmen William H. Bates (R-Salem) and Bradford F. Morse (R-Lowell). Bates will introduce guest speaker, GOP House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.).

The Sept. 9 affair at Caruso's Diplomat will be used as a fund-raiser for the 40 Republican candidates from Essex County. President McCarthy said the Essex Club hopes to raise $7,500 at the $10-a-plate dinner.

"We don't want any money left over in the treasury. We'll give it out to the candidates. They'll all get some, "promised McCarthy, "and we'll give more to candidates in areas where we feel more is needed."
